

Grossmont Healthcare District's
Health & Wellness Library

An East County community resource

Call for Art!

The Grossmont Healthcare District's Health & Wellness Library is one of the few public libraries in the country that focuses only on Health & Wellness resources. In addition to our print and online collections of current and reliable health information, we also offer free health education programs, wellness kits, and a community art exhibition space where we host quarterly art exhibits. Engaging with art can have significant benefits for health and wellness by reducing stress, enhancing emotional well-being, and promoting relaxation.

We are excited to invite artists of all backgrounds and disciplines to submit their artwork for potential exhibition at the Health & Wellness Library. The artwork does not need to have a health or wellness focus; but submissions must be works that can be hung on walls, including but not limited to paintings, drawings, photography, and mixed media. Non-profit organizations and schools who offer art programs/classes are also encouraged to apply. Due to limited space and the high volume of submissions, not all works will be selected for exhibition. GHD staff will carefully review each submission, and only artwork that is suitable for wall display will be considered.

This Call for Art is open to all artists; however, preference will be given to those artists who live, work, go to school, and/or receive healthcare with the boundaries of the Grossmont Healthcare District (Map of the District: <https://www.grossmonthealthcare.org/board/district-map/>) To apply, please review our Art and Community Exhibits Policy, complete the Application, and submit (along with the requested support materials outlined in the application) to library@grossmonthealthcare.org. All submissions will be reviewed by GHD staff and selected artists will be notified.

We look forward to showcasing the creativity that makes our East County community unique!
